

POSADA DE LAS FLORES

Baja California

BAJA IS... a peninsula with the soul of an island. Visiting Baja is like going back in time. It is one of the most unique destinations on the planet, and tends to entice travellers with a spirit of adventure from all corners of the globe! Stretching for 1,200 miles south from the California border to the tip at Cabo San Lucas, the Baja Peninsula is one of the longest peninsulas in the world. Either way Baja offers scenery that must be seen to be believed. The Pacific Ocean runs along the peninsula's entire west coast, while the azure Sea of Cortez hugs the east coast. Tall mountains provide a sturdy spine for Baja running from northwest to southeast along its entire length. The balance of the interior consists of plains, valleys, hills, dry lakebeds, extinct volcanoes, pine and cactus forests, islands and a potpourri of other types of geography. Much of Baja's flora and fauna is unique to this secret land and adds to Baja's allure. There is still plenty of solitude to be found in Baja, and plenty of adventure.
